

Center for Medicaid and State Operations

SMDL #07-011

August 15, 2007

Dear State Medicaid Director:

The purpose of this letter is to provide guidance to States interested in peer support services under the Medicaid program. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) recognizes that the mental health field has seen a big shift in the paradigm of care over the last few years. Now, more than ever, there is great emphasis on recovery from even the most serious mental illnesses when persons have access in their communities to treatment and supports that are tailored to their needs. Recovery refers to the process in which people are able to live, work, learn and participate fully in their communities. For some individuals, recovery is the ability to live a fulfilling and productive life despite a disability. For others, recovery implies the reduction or complete remission of symptoms.

Background on Policy Issue

States are increasingly interested in covering peer support providers as a distinct provider type for the delivery of counseling and other support services to Medicaid eligible adults with mental illnesses and/or substance use disorders. Peer support services are an evidence-based mental health model of care which consists of a qualified peer support provider who assists individuals with their recovery from mental illness and substance use disorders. CMS recognizes that the experiences of peer support providers, as consumers of mental health and substance use services, can be an important component in a State's delivery of effective treatment. CMS is reaffirming its commitment to State flexibility, increased innovation, consumer choice, self-direction, recovery, and consumer protection through approval of these services. The following policy guidance includes requirements for supervision, care-coordination, and minimum training criteria for peer support providers.

As States develop behavioral health models of care under the Medicaid program, they have the option to offer peer support services as a component of a comprehensive mental health and substance use service delivery system. When electing to provide peer support services for Medicaid beneficiaries, State Medicaid agencies may choose to collaborate with State Mental Health Departments. We encourage States to consider comprehensive programs but note that regardless of how a State models its mental health and substance use disorder service delivery system, the State Medicaid agency continues to have the authority to determine the service delivery system, medical necessity criteria, and to define the amount, duration, and scope of the service.

States may choose to deliver peer support services through several Medicaid funding authorities in the Social Security Act. The following current authorities have been used by States to date:

- Section 1905(a)(13)
- 1915(b) Waiver Authority
- 1915(c) Waiver Authority

Delivery of Peer Support Services

Consistent with all services billed under the Medicaid program, States utilizing peer support services must comply with all Federal Medicaid regulations and policy. In order to be considered for Federal reimbursement, States must identify the Medicaid authority to be used for coverage and payment, describe the service, the provider of the service, and their qualifications in full detail. States must describe utilization review and reimbursement methodologies.

Medicaid reimburses for peer support services delivered directly to Medicaid beneficiaries with mental health and/or substance use disorders. Additionally, reimbursement must be based on an identified unit of service and be provided by one peer support provider, based on an approved plan of care. States must provide an assurance that there are mechanisms in place to prevent over-billing for services, such as prior authorization and other utilization management methods.

Peer support providers should be self-identified consumers who are in recovery from mental illness and/or substance use disorders. Supervision and care coordination are core components of peer support services. Additionally, peer support providers must be sufficiently trained to deliver services. The following are the minimum requirements that should be addressed for supervision, care coordination and training when electing to provide peer support services.

1) Supervision

Supervision must be provided by a competent mental health professional (as defined by the State). The amount, duration and scope of supervision will vary depending on State Practice Acts, the demonstrated competency and experience of the peer support provider, as well as the service mix, and may range from direct oversight to periodic care consultation.

2) Care-Coordination

As with many Medicaid funded services, peer support services must be coordinated within the context of a comprehensive, individualized plan of care that includes specific individualized goals. States should use a person-centered planning process to help promote participant ownership of the plan of care. Such methods actively engage and empower the participant, and individuals selected by the participant, in leading and directing the design of the service plan and, thereby, ensure that the plan reflects the needs and preferences of the participant in achieving the specific, individualized goals that have measurable results and are specified in the service plan.

3) Training and Credentialing

Peer support providers must complete training and certification as defined by the State. Training must provide peer support providers with a basic set of competencies necessary to perform the peer support function. The peer must demonstrate the ability to support the recovery of others from mental illness and/or substance use disorders. Similar to other provider types, ongoing continuing educational requirements for peer support providers must be in place.

Sincerely,

/s/
